Your children are not your children.
They are the sons and daughters of life's longing for itself.
They come through you but not from you,
And though they are with you yet they belong not to you.

You may give them your love but not your thoughts,
For they have their own thoughts.
You may house their bodies but not their souls,
For their souls dwell in the house of tomorrow, which you cannot visit, not even in your dreams.
You may strive to be like them, but seek not to make them like you,
For life goes not backward nor tarries with yesterday.

You are the bows from which your children as living arrows are sent forth.

Let your bending in the archer's hand be for gladness.

IN WHAT DOES THE ALIENATION OF LABOR CONSIST? FIRST, THAT THE WORK IS EXTERNAL TO THE WORKER, THAT IT IS NOT A PART OF HIS NATURE, THAT CONSEQUENTLY HE DOES NOT FULFILL HIMSELF IN HIS WORK BUT DENIES HIMSELF, HAS A FEELING OF MISERY, NOT OF WELL-BEING.

MARX

The 1970-71 school year was, for many reasons, one of the most satisfying years in my private school career. Like most private schools of our type, it was a difficult year as far as enrollment was concerned. We did not meet our projection, hence began the year with a sizeable deficit.

Serious and important steps had to be taken, otherwise Berwick would have to close its doors. After much discussion among the Board of Trustees, headed by its new Chairman, Mr. Thomas Lea Davidson, it was decided that there were three areas of concern. The existing budget had to be pared down considerably. We had to launch a giving program, initiated by the board of Trustees. In addition, there had to be a realistic projection of new students even after the school year began.

All of these have been pretty much accomplished and a balanced budget is our goal. In addition, a planning committee has been formed for next year. It has been decided that Berwick will go co-ed boarding and day, with Flanders House, Berwick House and Annex as co-ed dormitories, beginning in the Fall of 1971.

At this writing, it is also in the future plans to possibly move into a seventh and eighth grade program within another year. In addition, an all sports program has been instituted for the summer of 1971, with opportunities for remedial help, if necessary, using the facilities of our wonderful plant.

Through all of these real problems, this year's graduating class has given the administration a tremendous vote of confidence that all would eventually come out right. They have never given any indication that there was any real problem involved. In addition, they were instrumental in explaining our problems to their parents, relatives and friends. The result was one of the finest giving programs Berwick has had in many years, helped greatly by the parents. Members of this year's Senior class also embarked on a unique short term project, that of recruiting students for next year. Many fine comments were received from various schools concerning the favorable impressions made and their sincere efforts to promote our school.

At the completion of my first year as Headmaster, I would like to state in all sincerity that this year's student council, ably led by the senior members, has been the best I have ever had the opportunity to work with. What they have accomplished should stand as a great example of what strong and conscientious leadership means to those who follow this class.

We hope that Berwick will always be in your thoughts when you leave us. We will miss this class greatly, but feel sure you are leaving us with a certain amount of gratification for what this dedicated faculty has attempted to do to make your stay here a memorable one. We would like to think that you would come back and visit us often. You would certainly be most welcome.

Good luck to all of you!

Gene McNabb.

A VISIT AT . . .

The door which I viewed, (such a spring color green!),
Seemed a barricade — stopping the things that were seen
Once by students entering the double door
For a century or two, (or maybe more.)

But with feet on step and hand on clasp,
The door moved easily within my grasp.
So I opened the door and saw the sights
That kind of gave you a "Funny" fright
Of just not knowing what's coming next —
A fright of wondering what to expect.
Then I closed the door, and the room seemed cold.
I glanced at the books that were old, so old.
They were kept under glass, and of course could never be read
By a student in class (but that comes later).

A fireplace loomed ahead of me, and then some stairs.
I could plainly see them, leading up to the top of the hall.
So I started climbing each and all.
'Til I met a woman ahead on the stair,
Who asked me why I was going and where . . .

I thought she was nosy, but I opened my mouth
And told her exactly what I was about,
And she nodded her head and led me away,
Far down the hall to where I could stay,
In the office of Mr. Burnham!

She sat me down in a leather chair and turned on a lamp and gave Me a stare, and said, "Let's throw some light on the subject!"
So I sat in a chair, and started my wait.
Mr. Burnham came in (five minutes late!)
He said hello, and with a grin, he showed me his office and led me in.
And shut the door, and asked me a question that led to more and more!!

He asked me my age, and he asked me my height.
He asked me the things I did wrong and did right,
He asked me more questions I just couldn't get,
He asked me the questions I thought I knew best.
Finally he quit, and he asked me no more.
But gave me a paper and showed me the door,
And smiled and said, "Bye" and said to me,
"Why, if you have any questions, then call"
And ushered me into the hall!

And so then I left — walked down the hall
And traveled the staircase — saw no one at all
Except the old books in the bookcase I passed
And my funny expression (in a looking glass)
Then I opened the door and walked out on the step,
And closed it behind me, and the memory I kept
Was the very last look at the green colored door.
Then I turned away, and I saw no more.

As it was decided to dedicate the 1971 Quamphegan to an idea instead of a person, we, the staff, feel that a tribute should be paid to Mr. Charles Andres, art instructor. Mr. Andres has been with the Academy for several years and has taught drawing, painting and a course in the history of art. He is an illustrator of many books and is a well known artist in the area. Therefore, we dedicate these pages to Mr. Andres.
